

I was walking around Bristol Pennsylvania yesterday and saw this cool barbershop in a narrow old building. I really like the window view. If you click to enlarge the bottom picture you will see the old barber asleep in his chair as well as his collection of stuff and even the reflection of me taking the picture. This was taken just down the street from where I took the picture of our little friend in yesterday's post.

POSTED BY JAMES AT 11:36 AM

LABELS: BRISTOL, BUILDINGS, PENNSYLVANIA, WINDOW VIEWS

What a charming little shop and it's priceless that you caught him sleeping at the window.

:~)

June 10, 2009 1:27 PM

Hey James, I think it is Vintage! Beautiful brickwork and adorable shot!
Thanks for sharing

Léia

June 10, 2009 2:52 PM

This is perfect!

I love all those vintage collectibles and him sleeping is priceless!

Oh, and nice to see you James. :)

June 10, 2009 3:31 PM

That's a great shot! I love that you captured the barber! I am trying to get out and about and take daily photos of the things around Lansdale.

I posted something near and dear to me yesterday.

June 10, 2009 4:50 PM

That is one skinny barber shop--must be a lot of close shaves in there.

June 10, 2009 8:38 PM

I love this snippet of life in a place far away from me. And how sweet the barber is asleep and your caught in the capture as well. :)

June 10, 2009 10:12 PM

26 Comments

Close this window Jump to comment form

---

bookbabie said...

We both seem to have red bricks on the brain today!

June 10, 2009 12:23 PM

ilanadavita said...

Cool choice.

June 10, 2009 1:06 PM

cieldequimper said...

What a cute little building I would tend to associate more with the usual size in Europe!

June 10, 2009 1:12 PM

2sweetnsaxy said...

What a charming little shop and it's priceless that you caught him sleeping at the window.

: -)

June 10, 2009 1:27 PM

Jeri said...

Such a cool little building, the kind that makes you want to walk right up and look in the window...thanks for letting us do just that!

June 10, 2009 1:47 PM

ellen b. said...

Great shots James. What a great classic barber shop. I've lived in Orange County and I've visited my brother when he lived in Irving Texas so we've stomped some of the same ground! Enjoy your explorations...

June 10, 2009 2:33 PM

Cezar and Léia said...

Hey James, I think it is Vintage! Beautiful brickwork and adorable shot! Thanks for sharing

Léia

June 10, 2009 2:52 PM

Carletta said...

This is perfect!

I love all those vintage collectibles and him sleeping is priceless!

Oh, and nice to see you James. :)

June 10, 2009 3:31 PM

Carletta said...

Sorry, I meant to add that this would be a great shot for Mary's Sepia Scenes as well. :)

June 10, 2009 3:32 PM

daddyandboys said...

Cool photos! Quaint little shop in small town PA. I am originally from that general area albeit not the immediate area of Bristol, and I miss it.

June 10, 2009 4:01 PM

Martha in PA said...

That's a great shot! I love that you captured the barber! I am trying to get out and about and take daily photos of the things around Lansdale.

I posted something near and dear to me yesterday.

June 10, 2009 4:50 PM

maryt/theteach said...

James, great job, great barber sjop window! I love it! Happy Window Views Day! :)
June 10, 2009 4:56 PM

Paul said...

cool pics James!
June 10, 2009 8:21 PM

SandyCarlson said...

That is one skinny barber shop--must be a lot of close shaves in there.
June 10, 2009 8:38 PM

Lew said...

Great shot! This looks like a newer version of the old one room wide houses of long ago.
June 10, 2009 9:16 PM

Eaton Bennett said...

I love this snippet of life in a place far away from me. And how sweet the barber is asleep and your caught in the capture as well. :)
June 10, 2009 10:12 PM

Lily Hydrangea said...

I love old buildings or new buildings that are styled after old ones. This is such a perfect capture of life in a very American town, very nice.

Your kitty is so cute too, great U post.

June 10, 2009 10:59 PM

Lee Spangler said...

Really great shot which shows something of the town. A window into America without Walmart!

June 11, 2009 12:17 AM

Robin said...

Great snippet of small town life.

I wonder how those striped poles came to represent barber shops...

June 11, 2009 2:32 AM

j9marshall said...

I enlarged the pic and am so glad I did - it adds to the image that I can see the photographer and also the Barber.

Re Robin's comment above: The red and white pole represents red blood and white bandage - since in the early days razors were called "cut throat" and shaving was a risky business unless the Barber had a very steady hand! Lol!

My entry:

<http://j9marshall.wordpress.com/2009/06/11/window-views-for-sale/>

Milo and Alfie's entry:

<http://milocat.wordpress.com/2009/06/11/window-views-3/>

June 11, 2009 3:22 AM happyone said...

Fantastic shot - such great detail.

June 11, 2009 8:37 AM

kaye said...

love the shot, we have a barbershop with a barber pole in our town too. I also saw you and your camera in the window reflection :)

Hope you can stop by to see my sepia scene and window views Thanks!

June 11, 2009 12:50 PM

Martha said...

What a cute little old fashion barber shop - love it :-)

June 12, 2009 8:05 AM

Danielle said...

It's neat how well preserved the building looks. The bricks and mortar look to be in good shape. So Joe is asleep in the window, what happened to Nick? Great post.

June 12, 2009 11:38 AM

Bogey said...

It's like stepping back into the pages of yesterday. I can only imagine the stories coming from the gentleman as he is snipping your hair. Very nostalgic storyteller said...

June 13, 2009 11:23 AM

Wonderful brick and mortar building ... something we don't see much of here in Southern California. I shared window views this week at Small Reflections but haven't had much time for blog visits until today, so I'm doing what I can to catch up.

Hugs and blessings,
June 14, 2009 11:49 AM

Leave your comment

A vertical comment form with a large text input area. On the right side, there are two small buttons: a top one with a plus sign and a bottom one with a minus sign. At the bottom left, there are two small buttons with left and right arrow symbols.

You can use some HTML tags, such as ``, ``, ``

Comment moderation has been enabled. All comments must be approved by the blog author.

WORD VERIFICATION

 A small blue accessibility icon (a person in a wheelchair) is located to the right of the word verification input field.

Type the characters you see in the picture above.

Choose an identity

Google Account

USERNAME

PASSWORD

No Google Account? Sign up here.
You can also use your Blogger account.

OpenID

Name/URL

Anonymous

PUBLISH YOUR COMMENT

PREVIEW

Preview

Preview